Fusion Talk Show

Teenagers are faced with life-changing choices and the consequences almost every day. Many teens are seeking answers to difficult questions such as sex, self-esteem, and how to deal with the pressures of school. Research shows that teens want compassionate understanding and an attentive ear from their parents and adults.

Fusion Talk Show is designed to provide an informative platform consisting of a panel of mentors and professionals that will allow teens to express their issues. The vision of Fusion Talk Show is to open the lines of communication and bridge the gap between teens and adults.

Kickback with Fusion Talk Show

“Kickback with Fusion Talk Show” is a discussion-based program that serves teens ages 12-19. Fusion Hosts Jasmine Akakpo and Somalia Ra-Min host “Kickback with Fusion Talk Show” by presenting the topics to the teens and moderating the discussions.

As appropriate and when available, outside professionals, resources, and activities will be included in Kickback sessions to introduce areas of expertise.

Fusion Talk Show Hosts

Jasmine Akakpo is a former child model and actor who has recently made her way back in the entertainment industry. She has done work on TV shows such as “The Game” and “Drop Dead Diva” along with many independent films of young filmmakers like herself. Jasmine takes pride in her fun, down-to-earth personality and loves working with others. Although she is young, Jasmine is on the cusp of her career’s lasting success, pushing forward with true passion and courage, proving to herself that she will be a lasting force in this industry.

Somalia Ra-Min is originally from Jersey City, NJ. When she relocated to Atlanta, her artistic talents started to reveal themselves. At the tender age of 9, Somalia won her very first talent show dancing. As she grew older, she began to discover her other hidden talents such as singing, acting, and her interest in Television/Communications. It is clear that whether Somalia is singing in the McDonalds “The Gift” inspirational singing competition, dancing at her school’s football games, or acting in school plays. She’s always ready to give her best performance.
